Abstract

In the time being the popularity of money is permanently decreasing. The question what to do with unusable money arose among the others. We would like to consider all aspects of this phenomenon according to the present knowledge and the state of the art. We collected huge amount of ideas and last ten years we sort them. Unfortunately up to now we have not found two of the same category. But our effort is not at the end.

1 Introduction

This is the main text of the contribution containing various information on the topic, which has several aspects including those mentioned in Barry Williams book [2]. It is not terribly fun for the rest of us. No one of us can say what will be in future with money. They are becoming useless. In this paper, we detail the results of our study.<sup>1</sup>

This<sup>2</sup> is the main text of the contribution containing various information on the topic, which has several aspects including those mentioned in a book by Karabas [1]. It is not terribly fun for the rest of us. No one of us can say what will be in future with money. They are becoming useless. In this paper, we detail the results of our study. Compare with the literature, e.g. [2, 1]

In Section 2, we describe the present state of methods used in the area. In Section 3, we discuss difficulties and describe techniques which we subsequently developed (see Figure 1) to overcome them. Finally, in Section 4, we examine the effects of these techniques on mind health of the user.
